

Source:

Official profile of the Presidency on Facebook

The official profile of the Presidency on Facebook reported:

After the summary presented by several of the participants in the visit, the governor of Las Tunas, Jaime Ernesto Chiang, assured that the points constitute a guide for action for the territory and their solution is essential to achieve the wellbeing of the population.

Manuel Marrero Cruz pointed out that the visit took place in a particularly complex moment, marked by the intensification of the blockade, but with the contribution of everyone and the participation of the people "we will move forward".

During the visit: The 8 municipalities and 20 neighborhoods were visited. More than 400 economic objectives were evaluated. They met with 8690 people.

Manuel Marrero Cruz insisted on the need to strengthen the attention to children and young people, and described as encouraging the exchange with the population, which at all times showed its support to the Revolution.

"We have to be in the streets, next to the people, listening to them and looking for solutions to their problems", said Manuel Marrero Cruz.

The Prime Minister, Manuel Marrero Cruz, indicated, among other issues, to improve the work in the neighborhoods, to attend to the constructive situation of the educational, cultural and sports facilities, as well as the housing program, in a differentiated manner.

"We leave with the conviction that Las Tunas has a revolutionary people, with confidence in the Revolution, and with a people like ours it is enough to overcome obstacles and move forward", concluded Manuel Marrero Cruz.

---